

Call for Papers
Ninth Joint Research Workshop Paris 1 – FESP
Public Policies and Sustainable Development

28-29 November 2023
Paris, France

Background and Context

The University Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne and the French section of the Faculty of Economics and Political Sciences (FEPS) at Cairo University are pleased to organize the Ninth Joint Research Workshop on “Public Policies and Sustainable Development”.

This workshop provides a platform for approximately 40 economists (and professionals in related disciplines) from Egypt and France to discuss their recent research work. In addition, it offers a vehicle for networking among researchers from both universities. The organization of this research workshop follows a long-standing cooperation between the two universities, including the agreement of a double diploma (at both the undergraduate and the postgraduate levels) in economics that strengthen scientific links between the two institutions.

Workshop themes

The organizers welcome papers related to public policies and sustainable development such as:

- Public policies and social protection.
- Public policies and gender.
- Public policies and firms.
- Public policies and poverty.
- Public policies and inequality.
- Public policies and environment.
- Public policies and energy.
- Public policies and food security
- Public policies and digitalization.
- Public policies and industrial clusters.
- Public policies and global value chains.

Instructions for authors

All authors are asked to submit a full paper and /or an extended abstract in pdf format only. The extended abstract (maximum 1000 words) should be submitted in English and should clearly state the research question, policy relevance of the paper, the methodology and data used (if appropriate). The author making the submission must provide the full names, affiliations, and email addresses of all coauthors for each submission. Please note that each individual may present only one paper during the conference, though they may be listed as a co-author on multiple papers.
